A Summary of Using Dragon with Citrix

Outside of a Citrix Environment (locally)

Users cannot, unfortunately, use Dragon locally over a Citrix and take advantage of the following Dragon features:

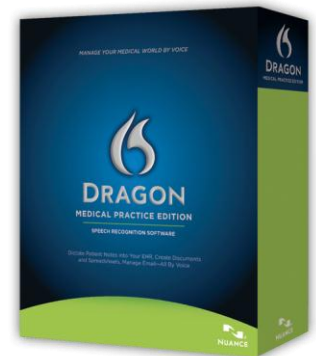

- full Select-and-Say (Full Text Control) – the ability to edit, correct, and playback previously dictated text by voice
- use Advanced Scripting commands
- use step-by-step commands that contain send keys steps
- use step-by-step commands that contain type text steps

With Dragon 11, you can take advantage of the dictation box as well as some text and graphics commands for a more functional experience. You will have full Select-and-Say (Full Text Control) while in Dragon's dictation box, but experiences will vary from set up to set up. We suggest working with Speakeasy Solutions Inc. to discover the most expeditious methods for employing these techniques for your particular situation.

Within a Citrix Environment

However, Dragon can work in a Citrix environment with a thick client. Following is some information with respect to using Dragon in a Citrix based EMR or application:

Dragon must be installed on your Citrix server plus additional setup files on your local machine. Have your local Dragon user profile imported onto the Citrix server Dragon (so you need not redo your profile). This will allow you to use Dragon as you had previously, with your commands, as well as Select-and-Say. However, this is only possible if the Citrix bandwidth meets the minimum requirements by Dragon (otherwise the results are unpredictable).

Dragon will need to be installed on the same Citrix server as your EMR or other applications such as Word. This is performed by those who manage your Citrix server. They can use your CD and your license code. The IT Admin guide that the Citrix server people will need can be found once Dragon is installed and is usually located here:

C:\Program Files (x86)\Nuance\NaturallySpeaking11\Help\dns_admin.chm

Final Notation

You can use Dragon either locally or via your Citrix server – not both simultaneously in the same session.
